Would it be worth adding a section on the front that tells the user how to subscribe to communities they are interested in? To me, the value is in knowing that new/active content is available. I don't always check the communities I am interested in, so I just now went in and signed up for all of them.

Not a bad idea, since that's one of the best features. I'm trying to keep the Welcome section brief, so "What's New" stays closer to the top, but maybe I could add a random "Tip-of-the-day" (or similar) box below the communities list. Of course then nobody would ever see it...

PS: I've added a brief document, Subscribing to New Content, with a link to it from the homepage "Welcome" box.
